BETWEEN US PUBLISH A LETTER FROM OUR SAN JOSE HOUSE, WHICH SHOWS THEIR EXPERIENCE WITH J. & P. COATES' THREAD. WE HAVE LATELY KEPT ALL THREE BRANDS OF THREAD, AND OWING TO COMPLAINTS MADE BY CUSTOMERS, WE SHALL, AFTER THIS DATE, SELL

COATS' COTTON THREAD, AT—

7 SPOOLS FOR 25 CENTS.

UNTIL OUR PRESENT STOCK IS DISPOSED OF.

LETTER FROM O. A. HALE & CO., SAN JOSE:

SAN JOSE (Cal.), November, 1883.

MESSRS. HALE BROS. & CO., Sacramento.

GENTLEMEN:—We have decided to close out our entire stock of J. & P. Coates Thread at the reduced price of 7 spools for 25 cents. Our decision in this matter has been prompted from the fact that some of our competitors have already established and advertised this price, claiming the O. N. T. and Clark's Mile End are superior in quality and strength, and we are of the opinion, on account of numerous complaints of customers, that they are right in their conclusions. With all due respect to the gentlemanly representatives of the Coats Thread, we must adhere to our well-known rule of keeping only the best goods in the market, and the sooner the sale of Coats' thread is discontinued, and the stock on hand turned into money, the better. The loss will be trivial in dollars, and cents compared with the loss of patronage we might incur by not placing on sale the best brands procurable. If upon receipt of this letter your views and experiences are of a similar unsatisfactory nature, you can take such steps in regard to clearing out your stock of J. & P. Coates cotton as you may deem proper.

Very truly yours,

O. A. HALE & CO., per L. O. B.

We shall limit each customer to the purchase of SEVEN SPOOLS at any one time, as it is our intention to distribute it to those of our customers who can use it, and not to sell it to dealers to sell again, thereby depriving our regular customers of the reduction intended for them.

COUNTRY ORDERS RECEIVE PROMPT AND CAREFUL ATTENTION.

VERY TRULY YOURS,

HALE BROS. & CO.,

Nos. 829, 831, 833, 835 K st., and No. 1026 Ninth st.

A MILLENNIAL PERIOD.

Mr. Abram S. Hewitt, to whom we have not been accustomed to look for unselfish political sentiment, and who has never been our ideal model of statesmanship, has just given utterance to so exalted a sentiment, that, indeed, the political world stands silent and awe-struck in the effort to grasp it in all its breadth and marvelous grandeur.

He declares that he cannot consent to become a candidate for the Presidency of the United States, because he "don't wish to strive, or seem to strive, for a post that should be filled by a man who can look over and beyond the mere distribution of spoils."

It is clear that the experiment in England has been successful.

No postal system is more complete in details, more exact in operation, more mathematical in all its ramifications, than the English. It is pre-eminently the best postal service in the world. It is therefore the very best in which to severely test the capacity of woman as an employee.

The evidence is that she is equal to postoffice work, and the probability is that she will continue to hold her own in the new position.

Prejudice should not be allowed to bar the door to any employment in which women may properly engage. Such women as are employed in postal work in the United States have, we believe, been quite as successful as men in like positions, and if a few have failed, the fact is nothing compared to the many men who have ill-advised public trials.

DEPARTMENTS OF OLD LOGIES WILL BE SCATTERED TO MODERATE, AND TESTIFY TO THE STUBBORNNESS AND FOOLY OF IGNORANCE.

THE CHARITABLE SEASON.

At this season of the year there is a more earnest appeal made upon those able to give, to contribute to the wants of the poor. There is much to be done of real good by discreet and well-directed contributions, and much of evil by careless and indiscriminate alms giving. The best method of helping the poor is to aid them to help themselves, and the majority of them are able to do so. But there are needs that can be answered only by direct contributions of food, clothing, money and medicines. These cases are by far the best reached through the medium of organized and unselfish charitable relief associations. Our whole system of disbursing charity is faulty. In greater part it begins wrong, and its operations are unequal and fail of the ends aimed at. But this is not a matter now to be discussed. In the absence of a system which should make aid to the deserving poor an equal burden, there remain only the associations of kindly men and women that undertake to use the funds given in charity to the best advantage. In discriminating giving of money to beggars but adds to the army of mendicants and augments real misery, while the really deserving are robbed of aid intended for them. The independent associations that disburse charitable contributions in this State are, we believe, well conducted and worthy the public confidence. Through them the poor will be best aided during the approaching winter. They are better prepared than others to economize charitable funds, to investigate doubtful cases, to resist imposition, and to enable the abridged poor to secure remunerative work.

AN ENGLISH EXPERIMENT.

English authority comes to the support of the proposition to employ women in postoffices. The experiment appears to have worked well in England. We have the word of the Spectator for it that they are civil, obliging and well-behaved, and it is added that there certainly has been "a distinct gain of civility and obligingness wherever female clerks have been substituted for male." It is clear that the experiment in England has been successful.

No postal system is more complete in details, more exact in operation, more mathematical in all its ramifications, than the English. It is pre-eminently the best postal service in the world. It is therefore the very best in which to severely test the capacity of woman as an employee.

The evidence is that she is equal to postoffice work, and the probability is that she will continue to hold her own in the new position.

Prejudice should not be allowed to bar the door to any employment in which women may properly engage. Such women as are employed in postal work in the United States have, we believe, been quite as successful as men in like positions, and if a few have failed, the fact is nothing compared to the many men who have ill-advised public trials.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.

A San Jose paper urges the repeal of our laws which permit marriages to be contracted by secret agreements. It is a timely protest against a loose and senseless system. We should recognize no marriage within the State not first authorized by issuance of license, nor any to which a church or civil official has not given the solemnity of his declaration and warrant of the contract system is an invitation to fraud, renders possible raids upon the estates of deceased rich men and women, may be used to assist blackmailing schemes, detracts from the dignity of the marriage relation, and tends to break down the barriers that guard society from degeneracy.

LOSING GROUND.

It appears that in Iowa the Prohibitionists will not have sufficient strength in the Legislature, after all, to carry out extreme measures. The majority is found, on a canvas made, to be opposed to resubmitting the prohibition constitutional amendment. All that can be done is to pass a stringent law, liable to repeal, of course, by the next Legislature. This is due to the acts of the Prohibitionists themselves, whose extreme demands have begun to weaken their own party. The Ohio Prohibitionists in like manner lost ground. In that State there is now an anti-temperance majority in the Legislature, and it will remain for two years.

GOOD MUSIC.

A San Jose paper urges the repeal of our laws which permit marriages to be contracted by secret agreements. It is a timely protest against a loose and senseless system. We should recognize no marriage within the State not first authorized by issuance of license, nor any to which a church or civil official has not given the solemnity of his declaration and warrant of the contract system is an invitation to fraud, renders possible raids upon the estates of deceased rich men and women, may be used to assist blackmailing schemes, detracts from the dignity of the marriage relation, and tends to break down the barriers that guard society from degeneracy.

LOSING GROUND.

The country will feel relieved to know that Mr. Hewitt is out of the way, that he is cognizant of his own modesty; but it will be puzzled somewhat to know whether his declaration is not, after all, in the nature of a confession of weakness and want of faith in the possible attainment he desires. Does this astute politician mean to tell us that he cannot "look over and beyond the mere distribution of the spoils?"

Or does he mean to imply that he can, but that he fears his fellow-citizens would be of no service but the master of Presidents, in greater or less degree.

We confess that we cannot look forward to the time when party shall have no influence in the choice of a President; and while we desire to see the spoils system eliminated, we have no sort of an idea that Presidents who owe their success to party support will ever be chosen who will wholly ignore the system of political relations. If Mr. Hewitt would have us understand that he cannot refer to the recognition by a President of men representative of the sentiment that his election signifies the people desire to dominate the country, as contrasted with a man who is a President who will use the patronage of his office to fatten party leeches, and administer his trust to advance party ends, then we can imagine such a state of political perfection will result in the choice of such a man. But to arrive at this stage of exaltation must not the country choose its President irrespective of party, and is that not an impossibility? We think so. Mr. Hewitt's idea, in short, is too great a one for this age, or for many that are to come; indeed, it may not be going too far to say that it is an idea in advance of and beyond a pure democracy, and gives us a faint glimpse of a possible millennial period, after the lapse of centuries when the whole people shall be of one mind, and there shall be no "unsound majority" and no sound "remnant."

THE NEW STANDARD AND ITS OPPONENTS.

The foolish people at the East who object to the new standard of time are very much like those of older time who persecuted the discoverers of natural laws. Even in California, at a not distant day, strange as it may seem, a teacher in one of the cow counties was dismissed by a school directory for insisting upon the rotundity of the earth. Several Eastern officials have made asses of themselves by invoking the law to prevent people from setting their clocks according to the new standard of time, which we have heretofore fully explained. These silly men will presently realize that the world will go around as ever, without regard to them, that the people will regulate their clocks and watches according to any standard they choose, and that there is, nor can there be, any legal restraint put upon them to the contrary.

The San Francisco Exchange, in discussing the plumbing law and its enforcement, well says: "If the person permitting imperfect plumbing were only softer, fault could be found; but it is by no means certain that he will be." His entire defense is that his anti-tariff vote is the best that he can do for the Democracy, and that ground should be all inquiry he shall be of.

We look for a long session of the Congress that is to assemble soon. The opening contests, that the Speaker will present three candidates and one of the three will be chosen, so far as can be forecast, in favor of Canfield. His choice will amount to a declaration of the Democracy against protection.

THE POLYGAMISTS OF TOP.

SAULT LAKE, November 21st.—In an interview yesterday with the Standard, George E. Spencer, of Alabama, who was arrested yesterday by Dr. DePuy and Marshal Nichols, and was held on a charge of contempt of court, said he had been retained by the Board of Directors of the Polygamous Church of Christ for not appearing as a witness in the star witness' trial, and that he had been offered a large sum of money to do so, but he refused.

A rumor is current here that the new Superintendent of the Sutro Railroad will run to-day, with a mere farce, to which he should pay no attention, but that in a poor place, because there are no employees but as these parties have been due here since October 10th, it is thought to be nothing but rumor.

SAULT LAKE, November 21st.—A frightful explosion occurred yesterday on Dry Creek, Union County, Or., killing three men and wounding four. A quantity of gun powder became ignited, and two men attempted to extinguish it. The powder exploded, horribly burned, and their clothes torn to shreds. One man was severely injured, another was slightly injured, and the third was dead.
